

What other grandparents are saying about Grandloving

“I have more little colorful tags on the pages of Grandloving marking all the things I want to do with Ema. I love the book!”

--Grandmother Marilyn Cooney, Chicago, IL

“Grandloving can be used by anyone who has young people in their care, including daycare providers, babysitters, and religious school teachers. I am ordering 10 copies for my family and friends who are new or expectant grandparents.”

-- Mary Jane Beeg, - Grandmother and librarian, Webster, NY

“I brought home as many books on grandparenting from the library as I could carry. Yours is the only one I’ll be using in my seminar ‘How to be a Creative Grandmother’. Grandloving is a ‘bible’ and so full of terrific ideas.”

--Grandmother Bev Shetter, Longmont, CO

“Because my grandson is 800 miles away, I especially liked the long-distance grandparenting ideas. I would recommend Grandloving to anyone, mothers and fathers as well as grandparents.”

--Carol Shaffer, Grandmother and author, Branson, Missouri

“Grandloving—a great book—humorous, heartwarming, as well as informative—a book you will want to open again and again.”

--Jean Whiting, Grandmother and librarian, Ramsey, NJ

“I will tune in to your web site to get additional tips. Thank you for all your hard work in creating this wonderful tool. Your mission of encouraging, supporting and celebrating families couldn’t come at a more appropriate time.”

--Linda Berry-Pain, Grandmother, Littleton, CO

“Our childbirth educators are delighted to be able to recommend Grandloving to the new parents and grandparents in their classes.”

--Marie Voss, Grandmother and hospital administrator, Rochester, NY

“After reading some of your activity ideas, I know on my next visit I will make a hit with the grandchildren. Thank you very much for keeping us grandparents in ‘sync’ with today’s generation. I have your web site in my ‘favorites’ so I can go to it frequently.”

--Meg Schriever, Grandmother, Marion, IA

“What a treasure you have produced! Grandloving shows all the research, the interviewing, the writing skills, but most of all the love you have put between the pages as Grandma and Mom. Thank you for sharing with all of us.”

-- Mary Fulreader, Grandmother, Fairport, NY

“Having no children of our own, our nieces are very close to us, not in miles but in heart. So their children have become very special to us, and I love your ideas.”

--Marilyn Kroms, Great Aunt, Rotterdam, NY

More of what other grandparents are saying about Grandloving

"As a former elementary teacher and grandmother of 3 - I love your book!"

--Marilyn Young, Grandmother and teacher, Wadsworth, OH

"Grandloving has many wonderful ideas to be used by parents as well as grandparents!"

--Joyce Cattau, Grandmother, Amherst, NY

"I am the delighted owner of your book, Grandloving, and do I ever find it rewarding! In fact, I am hoping to have a gathering of long-distance grandmothers so that we can compare notes and I can encourage them to buy your book. I have already given it as a gift."

--Karyl Viste, Grandmother, Great Falls, MT

"I recently had my second daughter and ran across Grandloving as I was looking for a gift for my wonderful, helpful parents-in-law who are fantastic grandparents. Both they and I have absolutely adored all the fun ideas and helpful suggestions. Thank you for writing a wonderful book to an often-ignored audience!"

--Mary Lou H., St. Paul, MN

"As a Head Start teacher, I want to thank you for Grandloving. Our disadvantaged kids have responded so well to your wonderful one-on-one heartfelt activities."

--Liz Brent, Grandmother and Teacher, New York City, NY

"I am really loving Grandloving---it is everything that your website and all the testimonials said it is and gazillion times more. Thanks to your fabulous book filled with so much advice and creative ideas, my husband and I feel so much more confident being grandparents."

--Marcia Herscovitz, Grandmother, San Diego, CA

"Grandloving has served as part of my personal motivation to be : (1) more imaginative and creative with our two grand children, (2) to spend quality one on one time with them, and be entirely focused on them during that time period, (3) to enjoy the opportunity of sharing their simplistic and open thoughts and ideas. I really feel grand parenting is one of life's greatest pleasures, and your book stimulated and helped contributed to that pleasure."

--Jerry Benson, Grandfather, Casper, WY

" I love having all these fantastic resources and ideas gathered under one cover."

--Judy Gordon, Grandmother and teacher, Rochester, NY

"Grandloving promotes bonding between grandparents and grandchildren in a framework of fun and learning through love, communication, involvement and activities. The book is a real treasure and worth its weight in gold."

---Lenore B. Weinstein, Grandmother and Book/media Editor Activity, Adaptation and Aging

All of these folks have given us permission to use their quotes and would be happy to speak with you about Grandloving. Give a call, and we'll be happy to connect you with them. 804 462-0884

Sue Johnson, Heartstrings Press, sue@grandloving.com or www.grandloving.com