

A New Web Page Just for Grandparents!

<http://www.grandloving.com>

LANCASTER, VA: From the authors of the popular book, Grandloving: Making Memories with Your Grandchildren 5th edition, winner of eight national parenting awards, comes a Web site that will inspire, guide and encourage grandparents around the world. The site, www.grandloving.com, has won a three star rating from The ABC's of Parenting.

Sue Johnson, Julie Carlson and Elizabeth Bower, authors of Grandloving, are a unique mother, daughter-in-law and daughter team whose nationally selling book includes more than 225 fun, inexpensive activity ideas and heartwarming anecdotes from over 350 families worldwide.

Packed with information, www.grandloving.com is a spin-off from their unique book and is unlike anything on the Web today. Grandparents will find such creative, family-friendly features as:

- Articles on holidays, visits to and from grandchildren, the postpartum visit, long-distance grandparenting and tips for grandparenting newborns to teens
- Print and send activities for long-distance grandparents
- Favorite resources and products for grandchildren and grandparents
- An extensive list of books carefully reviewed to give you a sense of their appropriate age level and content
- And much more...

This warm, upbeat and attractive Web site will encourage grandparents to make meaningful memories with grandchildren near and far.

Best of all, Sue, Julie and Elizabeth share the spirit of the Internet as it was meant to be—a forum for exchanging information worldwide, instead of a medium for pushy advertising. Readers will find a rich collection of ideas and hotlinks designed to encourage their unique family relationships, absolutely without hype or pressure. It's an ideal site for the "newbie" Nana searching for wonderful information about grandparenting or the seasoned grandparent looking for fresh ideas.
